Winter Festivals

JUST IN CASE.....

you think there are only Blues festivals in the summer.

by Georgina Lynn Boucher

Yes, sitting outside on a warm day listening to live Blues is a grand invention but Blues in the Winter can be a terrific thing to do when you need to shake your feathers and chase away the blues with the Blues. Here are two upcoming festivals to consider.

One that shines like a bright star on a cold clear night is the Aurora Winter Blues Festival which will be held for four nights from February 26th to March 1st. After celebrating its ten-year anniversary, this award-winning festival was sidelined by the Covid epidemic. But this year, Music Aurora and the Aurora Cultural Centre formed a partnership to bring about its revival. And it is going to be a very special celebration! The event will feature six shows and four live music workshops. The lineup is impressive. It includes the 2024 Maple Blues "new artist of the year" Little Magic Sam and his band; the multi-instrumentalist soul singer Harrison Kennedy with Bluesman Dave Mowat; the powerful visionary voice of Glenn Marais and two-time Juno award winner Dominique Fils-Aimé. Dominique is a highly regarded jazz singer known for her soulful, Blues-inspired artistry. The whole shebang opens with celebrated Canadian blues legend Jack de Keyzer on Feb. 26th and Suzie Vinnick on February 27th. Suzie is a multiple Juno nominated and Maple Blues award winner. She has twice won the International Songwriting Competition in the Blues category. Suzie will be playing with superb guest musicians Kevin Breit, Ottawa's Tony D (MonkeyJunk) and rising star Jay Bleus. The live and intimate workshops will include the fine musicianship of Toronto's Manny DeGrandis, who will be interviewing Glenn Marais about the early instruments of blues; harmonica torchbearer "Cabbagetown" Steve Grant; local singer and emcee Steve Falk; Aurora Museum historian Michelle Johnson and Underground Railroad historian and musician Diana Braithwaite. Workshops run from Friday to Sunday, to be held in Brevik Hall. Prices vary from $20-$50 for main stage shows. The festival entrance pass for all events is only $199.00. The ticket office can be reached at (365) 550-3313. Tickets can be purchased on line and questions can be emailed to info@auroraculturalcentre.ca. Seats are reserved and you can pick your seat at time of purchase. With I.D. all shows for students are only $15.

Greene & Bleus (Jesse Greene and Jay Bleus) have become a fixture at Grossmans with their 2nd Thursday residency but will be going their separate ways in the two Festival programmes described below. Jesse is part of the Winterfolk lineup and Jay will be opening for Suzie Vinnick at Aurora Winter Blues on February 27.

The Aurora Cultural Centre is a registered charity supported by local volunteers. This remarkable Centre has received a rare "Imagine Canada Trustmark" which acknowledges its exceptional service to the Aurora community. Located in a beautifully restored 1886 schoolhouse it features art exhibition spaces; educational instruction classes for children, teens and adults; rotating artists in residence and diverse artistic partnerships with local businesses, schools and the community at large. A 15% ticket discount is available if you purchase 3 or more of their upcoming events. Here is just a sample: on January 24th, be ready for a British Invasion, John Sheard's British Invasion! John Sheard is a pianist, producer and long-time music director of CBC Radio's Vinyl Café. The show will feature U.K born guitarist and vocalist Greg Wyard and upcoming singing sensation Charmie. On January 31st, mega producer, composer and pianist Lance Anderson will be performing one of his True Tribute concerts, this one to the great pianist Oscar Peterson. Lance was a good friend of Oscar's and will be sharing personal stories. On March 14th, five-time Juno award winner Jane Bunnett will be appearing with her all-female Afro Cuban band, Maqueque.

Aurora can be reached by bus, train, car or taxi from Toronto. For the most part you can be there in under an hour. Davide De Simone Performance Hall, Brevik Hall, Aurora Cultural Centre: Aurora Town Square, 50 Victoria Street in Aurora, Ontario

Winterfolk- the Tranzac Club, Toronto, Ont. February 12th-15th 2026

Originally billed as a "summer festival in Winter" this Roots and Blues event was founded in 2002 by Toronto musician Brian Gladstone. It has changed locations over the years, but it has never lost its desire to honour its grassroots origins. This year, for the first time the festival will be extended to four days with an emerging talent night on February 12th. It is to be held at the TTC accessible Tranzac Club at 292 Brunswick Avenue, Toronto. The venue will feature over 100 artists on multiple stages.

This year's programming blasts a breath of fresh air into the lineup with both new and seasoned Blues artists. In the "new artist" column, we will have an opportunity to see Jesse Greene, a powerhouse singer, guitarist and songwriter who hails originally from the Ottawa area. Jesse won the 2024 Amy Louie Grossman's Music Scholarship and was a previous finalist at the International Blues Challenge in Memphis. In the "seasoned" column we have Toney Springer of Wild T and the Spirit fame. When Jeff Healey was alive Jeff claimed that "he had learned more about music from Toney than from any other musician he knew." Jeff was not alone. Wild T impressed David Bowie so much that he used him as his guitarist on the album "Black Tie, White Noise". Toney also appeared with Bowie on every late-night show of the time. Toney has also backed Bon Jovi, appeared and performed as Jimi Hendrix in movies and toured extensively throughout Europe, the United States and Canada. Today, Wild T is more exciting than ever; his talent is still undeniable, and his shows never disappoint!

Another band in the “seasoned column” are The Swingin’ Blackjacks. They have been the backbone of the local Toronto scene for over 20 years. This tight, professional trio of Matt Allen, Gary Kendall and Adam David always know how to get it right with a toe tapping mix of rockabilly and jumping Blues.

Danny Marks is probably one of the most recognized names in the local Toronto music scene. From his youthful days in the 1960’s as founding member of the band Edward Bear to his 28-year tenure as host of the excellent Saturday night radio show BLUZ FM (8pm-midnight) (JAZZ.FM.91) he has carved his signature style in all that he does. In 2006 he won the “Blues with a Feeling” lifetime achievement Maple Blues award. In 2013 he created a critically acclaimed TV documentary series called “Cities in Blue” that explored the origin and evolution of Blues music in major American cities. With his vast knowledge of music and penchant for story telling his live performances are eclectic and entertaining.

To say that Shakura S’Aida is a seasoned performer would be an understatement. Simply known as Shakura, this remarkable Brooklyn-born Swiss-raised artist has contributed to the Toronto Music, Art and Theatrical scene for over 40 years. She is known as a singer/songwriter, actress, band leader/front woman, humanitarian, producer and playwright. Shakura not only continues to “Hold on to Love” as her 2023 Juno nominated, multi award winning album suggests; she exemplifies the value of love in all that she does. In 2021 she won the “Blues with a Feeling” lifetime achievement Maple Blues Award. Shakura is considered one of Canada’s most exciting and enduring voices in Blues/Roots and Soul music today.

And expect some bluesy sounds from Harpin’ Norm Lucien, Clela Errington, Kevin Breit, Noah Zacharin and popular world music man Donné Roberts.

Finally, in the “new artist” column is the Winterfolk festival itself. For the first time its opening night is going to feature new and emerging artists. This event will be free. A 3-day pass can be purchased on line for $108.47 which includes all fees and taxes. Single night ticket prices can be found at www.Winterfolk.com. A complete list of all the many other talented artists scheduled to perform over the three-day festival is also posted here.

This unique festival is a true antidote to the deep freeze that February can bring. Organizers expect tickets to sell out fast so check it out soon. The names of emerging new artists should be announced sometime in January.

Guitar Talk:

The Blues continue to stay true

by Frank Cosentino

The Blues stay true to their roots, maintaining an authentic presence in a constantly changing music scene characterized by rapid genre-blending, the rise of digital streaming platforms like Spotify and Apple Music, and shifting audience tastes across diverse groups, including younger generations and international listeners. This steadfast commitment to tradition helps preserve the soulful integrity that fundamentally defines the genre.

For dedicated musicians and industry insiders, following this authentic approach remains the only viable path to lasting success, as it clearly separates genuine artistry from fleeting trends and commercial gimmicks.

Any seasoned “lifer” will say that change is unavoidable, but staying deeply grounded in the principles laid down by legendary pioneers such as Robert Johnson, B.B. King, and Muddy Waters—whose innovations shaped modern blues—keeps a writer connected to the mojo, ensuring that the spirit of the blues stays vibrant and real.

Meanwhile, contemporary Blues artists are exploring new musical territories at a rapid pace, constantly opening doors to push the boundaries of what makes this music meaningful and relevant today.

Does this invite change to the blues as we know it?

It’s raw, emotional, goosebump-inducing DNA that connects deeply with audiences worldwide.

That’s a question I, as a songwriter, wrestle with every time I pick up a guitar to write.

We see boundaries pushed regularly, but does that make it right?

That’s the question I want to leave with you.

Discussing the art keeps it alive as much as practicing it.

Discuss.

Sunday Jam is Alive and Well at Grossman's Tavern

By Rob Quail

On Sunday, January 11, Hap Roderman and I, and special guest Al Cross, will be hosting the jam at this legendary venue. You should come! Here's why.

Any Toronto Blues fan will be familiar with Grossman's Tavern. It was one of the first taverns in Toronto to secure a liquor license, and began hosting live music not long afterward, in the early 1950s. It's been a storied live venue and a musicians' hangout ever since. And it is one of the only remaining live venues in the GTA where the focus is on the Blues and its close musical relatives.

The Grossman's Sunday Jam is by far Toronto's longest running blues jam. It goes back so far no-one seems to know exactly when it started up; at least 50 years ago. I personally started being a regular in the early 1980s, and other than the location of the stage, the stainless steel bar counter, improvements to the PA (there are functioning monitors now!), and numerous renovations of the men's room, it is pretty much unchanged in all that time. Many of my fondest musical moments have happened between those faded walls. The place has magic.

And there's history. When you set foot on that stage, you stand where legends have stood, including Jeff Healey, Big Sugar, Holly Cole, Amanda Marshall, the Shuffle Demons, Mel Brown, Shakura S'Aida, King Biscuit Boy, Paul James, Jack de Keyser, Lorne Lofsky, David Wilcox, Colin Linden, Kim Wilson, the Phantoms, McDonald-Rush, Dutch Mason, Philip Sayce, Downchild's Hock and Donnie Walsh (including their brief reunion on a Sunday there in 1985), Toney Springer, and many many more. The jam has gone through changes, from the 1980s and 1990s when it had rotating "host" bands, to the long and storied residency of the Nationals and Brian Cober, to the years when Bill Hedefine kept on as host.

Since things opened up after COVID, to keep things varied we have had four rotating hosts. I host on the second Sunday of each month. On bass is my musical brother, the infinitely creative Hap Roderman, and for the past year or so we have rotated many of Toronto's very finest drummers; on January 11 Hap and I are thrilled to welcome the magnificent Al Cross. The other Sundays are hosted by Paul Polisano, Ken Yoshiaka, and the Charter Blues Band.

The format is very laid back and informal: our band kicks things off at 9pm with a set, toward the end of which we are often joined by a guest or two, and then things open up and the fun really starts. We have witnessed some truly amazing spontaneous performances over the years. As is the case with any jam, the best moments happen when musicians really click and musical conversations start to happen, and in my experience, something about the magic of that room means that these moments seem to happen more often on the Grossman's stage than anywhere else. It's a great place to meet other players and see if there's chemistry.

Grossman's calls itself "Toronto's Home of the Blues," and while this is at its core a blues jam, the music that gets performed is actually pretty wide ranging (one recent Sunday included songs by Frank Zappa, Merle Haggard, Bob Marley, James Brown, the Beatles, and Sting.) And over the decades we have seen lots of unexpected instruments make appearances, including an oboe, a double bassoon, a cello, a harp (not a blues-harp...an actual classical harp, with strings), a theremin, a washboard, and numerous other wind and brass instruments.

All are welcome!

J.E. Lopez: A Blues Artist of Intention

by Georgina Lynn Boucher

"I once heard someone say that classical music is the music of the spirit and jazz music is the music of the mind. For me Blues is the music of the flesh. Raw. Visceral. It moves me in a way that nothing else does." J.E Lopez

J.E. Lopez is what they call a true Torontonian. He was born here and he grew up here. Like many of us whose roots go back to other countries, his personal connection to his Filipino ancestry is somewhat distant. But he does recognize that the Canadian Filipino diaspora echoes a complex cultural history, and one that is part of his own familial story. As a child, he was deeply influenced by American culture. He grew up listening to what his parents enjoyed; artists such as James Taylor, the Eagles and America. But when he started making his own musical choices he fell hard for American Rhythm and Blues. He especially loved the R&B music of the 1990's and 2000's: bands like Boyz II Men and the legendary producer and artist Babyface.

"From the beginning my father always supported my interest in music. He knew I liked to listen to R&B from this era. One day he brought home the DVD "MTV Unplugged Concert by Babyface from 1997."

The first song of the concert was "Change the World" made famous by Eric Clapton but written and produced by Babyface. In it, Babyface appears with guest artist Eric Clapton playing electric guitar. "I'd never seen anyone play guitar like Eric Clapton. His fingers would navigate up and down the guitar neck in a flowing, improvised style as if he was singing through his guitar, I felt I was witnessing magic." It was this moment of magic that was to change the young life of J.E. forever. It was the beginning of a love affair.

"I became obsessed with the art of Blues guitar and the history and lineage of the Blues."

Not long after that his ever-supportive father brought home a DVD of Stevie Ray Vaughan playing live at Toronto's legendary El Mocambo. "I remember sitting with my dad glued to the tv screen in awe of Stevie Ray, his music was raw and powerful, I knew I had experienced a Blues Tornado" By the age of sixteen J.E. began to play, sing and perform Blues music. His passion for the Blues only deepened during his time at university where he studied Theology and Classical History.

In 2025 J.E. Lopez was nominated runner up in the Toronto Blues Society talent search. He is currently working on several singles to be released in 2026 with the intention of more soon to follow including an EP and full album.

As inspirational as Clapton and Vaughan and other major Blues artists were to J.E. he never wanted to be a carbon copy of anyone. This love affair with the Blues had to be real and that meant finding his own voice. It was not long before he was performing in clubs all around Toronto, either playing his guitar and singing with other musicians or performing as a solo artist. He honed his talent and developed his own style of Blues.

"My first name was chosen by a boy starting out his journey in music, but the name J.E. Lopez was chosen by a man, with intention."

In 2023, Joshua Emmanuel Lopez (affectionately nicknamed Jlatte) experienced an epiphany. He made an intentional and conscious decision to change his professional name to J.E. Lopez. "I used to laugh when I heard about musicians changing their names, especially when they were well known. I didn't understand it." With time and the evolution of his music, however, it was a change that became profoundly important to Joshua: a symbol of rebirth and an act of intention. It was to be the beginning of a new chapter in his life.

Today the J.E. Lopez love affair with Blues has blossomed. He has become a skilled singer, guitarist and song writer. To hear him perform today is to hear the raw energy of Blues, the dynamic of pure Soul and the smoothness of modern R&B. He plays regularly at local clubs which he thrives on. "I enjoy the interplay and exchange of energy that happens between myself, the members of the band and the audience." He is still deeply inspired by the Blues but has a larger vision for himself. "I hope to continue to be a positive force musically and to be an artist for a long time to come."

J.E. Lopez will be performing with his band at The Handlebar at 159 Augusta Avenue in Kensington Market on January 17th. Doors open at 9pm. PWYC. To coincide with the Handlebar show, he will also be releasing his first single of 2026, a live version of the soul classic "Hold On, I'm Coming" by Sam and Dave. Available January 17th on all streaming platforms. On Saturday January 24th, look for J.E. to do a solo show at the Wintersong Music Festival in Stouffville, Ont., 6236 Main Street at Whitchurch/Stouffville at 5pm.

To have an opportunity to hear J.E. Lopez and know more about his upcoming shows join his mailing list at jelopezmusic.com. You can also find him on Instagram and YouTube: @jelopezmusic.

LOOSE BLUES NEWS

Paul James at 75: Toronto's blues community is gearing up for a milestone celebration as the legendary Paul James takes over the Phoenix Concert Theatre on Saturday, January 17, 2026. This isn't just another annual bash; it's a diamond jubilee marking James's 75th birthday, promising a high-octane night that honours one of Canada's most enduring musical icons. Paul James has been a cornerstone of the Canadian blues scene for over five decades. A Juno Award winner and recipient of the Maple Blues Lifetime Achievement Award, James is a "musician's musician" whose resume reads like a hall-of-fame roster. From backing Bo Diddley more than 100 times to his long-standing friendship with Bob Dylan, James represents the bridge between raw, 1950s rock-and-roll and authentic, foot-stomping blues.

Fans attending the 75th Birthday Bash can expect the signature showmanship that has made James a legend. Whether he's playing slide guitar with a beer bottle, wandering through the crowd mid-solo, or performing his acclaimed Dylan interpretations, James's energy remains as vital as it was during his Yorkville coffeehouse days.

The Phoenix, a venue that has hosted its fair share of history, provides the perfect backdrop for this 19+ event. Doors open at 7:00 PM. To show his appreciation for his fans, tickets are available free at <https://the phoenixconcerttheatre.com>

Marcia Ball honoured: Legendary Texas Musician and HOME (Housing Opportunities For Musicians And Entertainers) Founder Marcia Ball will be honoured following Ball's announced retirement from performing. On Thursday, January 29, 2026, the city of Austin, Texas will come together to celebrate the life and music of the legendary, five-time GRAMMY-nominated, Austin-based musician, Marcia Ball. Back in October, Ball announced her retirement from touring and performing due to a recent diagnosis of ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease). Ball will be on hand for the show alongside some very special guests, but will not perform. The program, entitled HOME With The Armadillo: An Evening Celebrating Marcia Ball, will take place at Austin's Paramount Theatre, with proceeds benefiting HOME (Housing Opportunities For Musicians And Entertainers), the musician assistance program Ball founded with friends and fellow musicians in 2012. The concert event will bring together the artists, collaborators, and friends who shaped Ball's musical journey including Carolyn Wonderland, Cindy Cashdollar, Ruthie Foster, Sarah Brown, Tracy

Nelson, Sonny Landreth, Terrance Simien, Sue Foley and more.

Winter workshop: Rob Lutes has announced his January-February online workshop series, "The Stories Behind the Songs - A History of American (and Canadian) Popular Music." It will be held on eight Wednesday evenings, from Jan. 7 to Feb. 25 (when it's really cold out!) - 6:30-8 PM EST. Go to www.roblutes.com or email rob@roblutes.com

Rob explains, "I perform songs, tell stories, show images, and play recordings to lead a journey through the fascinating evolution of popular music in America and Canada from the 1700s to the 1950s. There are lots of great characters and unexpected twists. I have a wealth of new material gained from teaching a course on this subject at the Thomas More Institute this Fall. These workshops will be on Zoom so the sound is good, and I get on early and stay late to greet and chat.

Say Hello to our new New Listings Coordinator: Toronto Blues Society is happy to introduce Bonnie Baker as the new Live Blues Listings Coordinator, stepping into the role after almost a decade of wonderful service by Janet Alilovic. Although based in St. Catharines, Bonnie is passionate about keeping the region's blues scene visible, vibrant, and well-connected. Artists, venues, and promoters are encouraged to submit their upcoming blues events to the TBS Events Calendar at torontobluesociety.com/events. Bonnie has also created a dedicated email, tbs.listings@gmail.com if you have any questions.

"Honorary Torontonian" and friend of the TBS, Jeff Davis, has received The Blues Foundation's 2026 Keeping the Blues Alive Award. His Playing with Fire series has been presenting free blues concerts for 22 years in Omaha, Nebraska and he is working with TBS to put on a great event in Toronto later this year. Details to come.

This Was Then

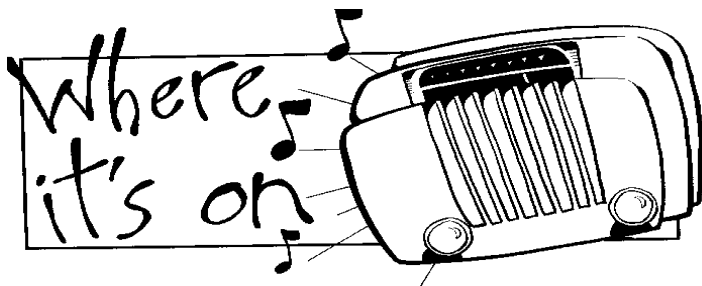

As we welcome our new Listings Coordinator and prepare for the next generation of the TBS Board of Directors (Annual General Meeting - Monday Jan 19), we endeavour to stay connected with our history. We've had a few "old-timers" sharing their memories of the early days in our "Pioneer Profile" feature (and we invite more!), and this month we have a blast-of-the-past of what the Blues Scene in Toronto looked like in the last century. These are the local listings from October, 1999. Thanks for the mem'ries!

Dr. Nick and the Rollercoasters return to the Rex on Saturday, January 3. Nick is a master of the fat-tone amplified harmonica sound that is so emblematic of the golden age of Chicago Blues. Juno award winning Julian Fauth also graces the stage on piano and vocals. On guitar, the talented Darren Gallen digs into some deep Blues grooves and is supported by the stellar rhythm section of Bob Vespaziani on drums and James Thompson on acoustic bass.

The Toronto Blues Society Cultural Statement

The Toronto Blues Society wishes to acknowledge and thank the first creators of the blues who gave us all this beautiful music that we enjoy today. African American musicians, singers, and songwriters created and used this music to sustain them through pain and hardship throughout their quest for freedom and equal rights.

The Toronto Blues Society is a Registered Charity

Make a donation beyond membership and merchandise, and get your charitable tax receipt in time for this year! (Charitable # 87487 7509 RR0001). You will be helping to support events like the annual Women's Blues Revue, The Blues in the Schools program, numerous workshops and career development activities for the musician community as well as the Maple Blues Awards and the Blues Summit conference, the most important blues industry gathering in Canada that occurs every other year. Networking events within this conference allow for industry discussion alongside artist discovery through the showcase program.
